

CIT Mock Ex. 1

By Alison Ho

1. Annie has bought a new printer which comes with several printer drivers stored in a CD-ROM.
 - (a) List the features that should be looked for in a printer.
 - (b) What are the functions of a printer driver program?
 - (c) Explain why printer drivers are usually written in low level programming languages.
 - (d)
 - i. Give two examples of low level programming languages.
 - ii. Give two examples of high level programming languages.
 - (e) State reasons for the advantages of high level languages over low level languages in
 - i. being more efficient
 - ii. being more portable
 - iii. source program being shorter in length

2.
 - (a) Describe the term “ domain name” and give an example.
 - (b) What is an IP address?

Peter is appointed to design a web page for the student association.

- (c) Name two different application software that may produce HTML files.
- (d) Other than text and graphics, state two other multimedia elements that could be included on the web page.
- (e) Peter wants to put the text in two columns. Discuss how this can be done.